The TSA's mini 'Watch List'
Posted by Sherman Frederick
Tuesday, May. 25, 2010 at 01:10 PM

Some people say the first mistake was to create the Transportation Security Administration -- it doesn't really stop terrorism, makes flying an even more unpleasant experience, and created a bureaucracy that will live on far past the initial threat.

Not sure I'd agree with all of that. But I will say that we made a fundamental mistake allowing the TSA to unionize. That makes about as much sense as unionizing the military.

For example, we now come to find out that the TSA is keeping a mini "watch list" of its own. It's not a watch list of potential terrorists. It's a watch list of peeved travelers who since 2007 have scared TSA workers by showing anger such as punching walls or kicking equipment. It makes their workplace uncomfortable, don't you know.

And how many pushy travelers are on this list that started in 2007, which includes names, Social Security numbers, home addresses, etc.? Well, TSA says their database has records from about 240 incidents. About 30 incidents involve passengers or airport workers threatening screeners. The remaining 210 incidents involve screeners in conflict with other screeners.

Screeners threatening other screeners? If you think I'm making this up, then click here for the rest of this sad story.

I'd like to think that someone in government would have enough sense to put an end to this kind of crazy. But it won't happen on this administration's watch. This is a gang that can't even call the current threat for what it is -- radical Islamic terrorism. I doubt they'd have the backbone to put a stop to a TSA shop steward collecting names of irritated travelers.

Bio

Jerry Ryburg is a political commentator and freelance writer who specializes in the areas of political conspiracy and the implications of such.

Jerry Ryburg was a lifelong conservative until he personally experienced the devastating effects of Hurricane Katrina in New Orleans – while he and his belongings were spared, the political and emotional effects were strong. Ryburg held strong convictions that the Republicans were the ideal party for America, disputed any and all conspiracy theories, and put a lot of faith in the federal government to fix the nation's problems. In seeking to disprove the conspiracy theories, he only discovered that the evidence was overwhelmingly in favor of the "conspiracy theorists" side – and, what was worst was seeing their predictions coming true and being predicted in the mainstream press.

Jerry Ryburg is now affiliated with no political party, yet he is often referred to as a libertarian. Ryburg came to this decision not because of Katrina, per se, but as a result of researching the way political parties operate. As a result, Ryburg has discovered or has concluded:

There is a sinister plot worldwide to enslave the people of the world into a tyrannical, global government, commonly referred to as "The New World Order."

There is a false "left-right" paradigm in this country that if you are not Democrat, then you are a Republican. In essence, there is a two party dictatorship in the USA which runs the show. They are all under the influence of international bankers, which willingly fund both sides of every war and both sides of every campaign.

President John F. Kennedy may have been the last president to be truly elected in the USA. Due to his desires to abolish the Federal Reserve and adopt a gold/silver standard for the nation's currency, Kennedy was assassinated. The international cartel of bankers responsible are still controlling Washington D.C. today.

Every president since, including the deified President Ronald Reagan, has become a puppet of the Illuminati, which consists of the Bildeberg Group, The Freemasons, Skull & Bones, Council on Foreign Relations, Bohemian Grove, and others.

The United States Military, unknown to most of its members, do not fight for the interests of the USA but only the corporate interests of the USA. Only the highest ranking military officials know the true function of the military.

The United States of America is in the process of being transformed into an Orwellian society, and this can be seen easily simply by reading the mainstream media sources. Higher taxes, stronger central government, and making things criminal which should not be is becoming the norm in the USA.

The USA will soon become subservient to the United Nations

President Barack Obama is the salesman for a more socialist, fascist society. By sheer hypnosis, Obama won the hearts of the American people, regardless of a past shrouded in mystery, questionable origins, and questionable associations.
