UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT DISTRICT OF NEVADA

RIGHTHAVEN LLC, a Nevada limitedliability company,

Plaintiff,

v.

WAYNE HOEHN, an individual,

Defendant.

Case No.: 2:11-cv-00050-PMP-RJJ

PROPOSED ORDER TRANSFERING INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY TO RECEIVER LARA PEARSON

[PROPOSED] ORDER

Pursuant to this Court’s Oral Order during the March 5 hearing on Defendant Wayne Hoehn’s (“Hoehn[’s]”) Motion for Writ of Body Attachment (Doc. # 68), this Court orders the transfer of all of Righthaven’s intellectual property and intangible property to the Receiver appointed in this case, Lara Pearson (the “Receiver”), in order to give effect to this Court’s December 12 Order requiring Righthaven to transfer its intellectual property to the Receiver for auction (Docs. # 62, 66).

I. Introduction

On June 20, 2011, this Court dismissed Righthaven’s copyright infringement action against Hoehn. (Doc. # 28) Following the Court’s dismissal of Righthaven’s case, the Hoehn was awarded attorneys’ fees and costs in the amount of $34,045.50 (Doc. # 43). Righthaven appealed this decision to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. (Doc. # 45) However, Righthaven

1 refused to post a supersedeas bond for $34,045.50 as required by Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(d) in order to 2 stay Hoehn's enforcement of his judgment (Doc. # 56). Righthaven's requests for relief before
3 this Court, as well as its two emergency motions before the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals 4 seeking relief from Hoehn's enforcement efforts, were denied (Docs. # 56, 57, 78).

5 In connection with the Defendant's judgment enforcement efforts, the Court appointed 6 the Receiver to, among other things, seize the copyrights assigned to Righthaven by various 7 entities (the "Copyrights"), as well as its trademarks and other intangible property, so that they 8 could be sold at auction. (Doc. # 62, 66) Despite the Receiver's efforts, Righthaven has not 9 transferred its intellectual property (Docs. # 70, 81, 82). The only property that the Receiver has 10 been able to obtain and auction is Righthaven's former domain name, <righthaven.com>, which 11 was sold for more than $3,000 in a commercially reasonable auction (Docs. # 81, 82).

12 Based on the evidence submitted to the court by the Receiver (Docs. # 70, 82), 13 Righthaven has failed to substantively participate in the orderly disposition and sale of its 14 intangible assets as ordered on December 12 (Doc. # 66). Moreover, Righthaven failed to appear 15 at the originally scheduled January 5, 2012 debtor examination in this case (Doc. # 71), failed to 16 appear at the March 5 hearing giving rise to this Order (Doc. # 88), apparently has failed to 17 participate in other ongoing proceedings within this district, and further appears to have not 18 complied with a monetary sanction imposed by a colleague of this Court in Righthaven LLC v.
19 Democratic Underground LLC et al., Case No. 2:10-cv-01356 (D. Nev.). See Righthaven LLC v.
20 DiBiase, Case No. 2:10-v-01343 Decl. of Kurt Opsahl (Doc. # 106-1) (D. Nev. Feb. 27, 2012)
21 (detailing how Righthaven failed meet self-imposed deadlines, refused to participate in litigation 22 where its Complaint was dismissed, and apparently did not pay a court sanction of $5,000).

23 In light of Righthaven's lack of participation in its proceedings and Hoehn's entitlement 24 to relief (Docs. # 62, 66), this Court now uses its powers to transfer Righthaven's intellectual 25 property to the Receiver, Lara Pearson. The Court deems Righthaven's conduct to constitute its 26 consent to this Order. With respect to Righthaven's copyrights, the Court is empowered to 27 accord this relief under 17 U.S.C. § 201(d)(1), which provides in relevant part that:
28

1 The ownership of a copyright may be transferred in whole or in part by any 2 means of conveyance or by operation of law (emphasis added).

3 This Court acknowledges that there is a dispute over what rights Righthaven actually 4 possesses. Nonetheless, the Court may use its powers under 17 U.S.C. § 201(d)(1) to transfer
5 Righthaven's copyright rights, whatever they are deemed to be,<sup>1</sup> to the receiver for auction
6 pursuant to the Court's December 12, 2011 order (Doc. # 66). While Righthaven has argued 7 now that it does not have more than the bare right to sue, as this court previously held, 8 Righthaven does possess copyright registrations that can be assigned by operation of law. The 9 copyright registrations to more than 275 works are in Righthaven's name, can be transferred by 10 this Court, and can then be auctioned by the Receiver. If the title to these works is in question, 11 that is a matter for litigation by any party that might claim an ownership interest superior to 12 whichever party purchases the copyrights at auction.

13 Additionally, Righthaven owns intangible property other than its registered copyrights –
14 namely its servicemarks and the rights it holds in its proprietary infringement searching software 15 – that are properly transferred to the Receiver. The ownership of this intangible property is not 16 at issue. Accordingly, and as part of this Order, this Court uses its statutory and equitable 17 powers to transfer those rights to the Receiver as well.

18 II. Assignment of Copyright Rights

19 Despite giving Righthaven the opportunity to assign its copyright rights of its own
20 accord, this Court is empowered to effect the transfer of copyright rights on its own under 17 21 U.S.C. § 201(d)(1). “Ownership of a copyright is freely transferrable ‘by any means of 22 conveyance or by operation of law.’” Barefoot Architect, Inc. v. Bunge, 632 F.3d 822, 827 (3d 23 Cir. 2011) (citing 17 U.S.C. § 201(d)). While Righthaven's possession of rights under Title 17 is 24 in dispute, it is irrelevant to this transfer. Under “American copyright law [...] there can be 25 multiple copyright owners in a single work.” Saregama India Ltd. v. Mosley, 635 F.3d 1284, 26 1292 n.22 (11th Cir. 2011). Such a transfer of copyright ownership by operation of law is

27 <sup>1</sup> A close legal analogy to this method of transfer is the quitclaim deed to land – While an owner of an 28 interest in land may not own the land in gross, a quitclaim deed allows him or her to transfer the rights he or she does own, limited though they may be, to a purchaser. Similarly, this Court transfers all the rights owned by Righthaven in its intellectual property, even if these rights are disputed, to the Receiver.

1 permissible in a “limited number,” of situations such as “bequest, bankruptcy, mortgage
2 foreclosures, and the like.” Brooks v. Bates, 781 F. Supp. 202, 205 (S.D.N.Y. 1991) (citing 3 Melville B. Nimmer & David Nimmer, 3 Nimmer on Copyright § 10.03[A] at 10-42 (1991)).

4 As noted in the Brooks decision, one circumstance where the judicial transfer of 5 copyright ownership by operation of law is appropriate is “pursuant to proceedings in 6 bankruptcy.” Id. As a receiver has been appointed in this case – a circumstance most often found 7 in bankruptcy cases, where an analogous trustee is appointed to collect and liquidate the 8 petitioner’s assets – there is sufficient justification for the Court to transfer Righthaven’s 9 copyright rights (whatever they may be) to the Receiver. See 11 U.S.C. §§ 701, 704, 1104.
10 Moreover, judicial resolution of this issue appears necessary due to Righthaven’s non-11 participation in the ongoing litigation, as the Court’s instructions to complete the transfer of 12 these rights has gone unheeded (Docs. # 62, 66, 70, 82). In light of this situation, the most 13 economical course of action is for this Court to exercise its power to transfer Righthaven’s rights 14 – whatever they may be – to the Receiver for auction under § 201(d)(1).

15 a. Righthaven’s Registered Copyrights

7 The Court requests that the U.S. Copyright Office acknowledge this assignment under 17 8 U.S.C. § 201(d)(1) by, upon request by any purchaser of the rights at auction, recording the 9 assignment of the copyright registration for the above work(s) from Righthaven LLC to the 10 purchaser at auction.

11 b. Righthaven's Copyrightable but Unregistered Creations

12 Righthaven has stated to the Court that it owns certain proprietary infringement-searching 13 software (Doc. # 52-1) that is used in its business activities. The software code comprising this 14 technology constitutes copyrightable matter under 17 U.S.C. § 102 and, as such, is subject to this 15 Court's powers under § 201(d)(1) of this same title of the United States Code.

16 Accordingly, the Court uses its powers under 17 U.S.C. § 201(d) to transfer Righthaven's
17 copyright rights in this proprietary software to the Receiver for auction. Upon the signing of this 18 order, any and all rights held by Righthaven in its proprietary software, however it is compiled or 19 defined, are hereby transferred in full from Righthaven LLC to the Receiver, Lara Pearson, in her 20 capacity as receiver, to be auctioned in partial fulfillment of Hoehn's judgment (Doc. # 44).

21 III. Righthaven's Servicemarks and Trademarks

22 Also contemplated in Hoehn's Motion for the compelled assignment of Righthaven's
23 intellectual property (Doc. # 62) is the forced assignment of Righthaven's servicemarks. Hoehn 24 submitted a pro forma trademark and servicemark assignment form (Doc. # 62 Exh. D), which 25 Righthaven was to use in assigning its servicemarks and associated goodwill to the Receiver
26 (Doc. # 66), but Righthaven has declined to do so (Docs. # 70, 82). Being left with no 27 alternative due to Righthaven's non-participation in the liquidation of its assets (Docs. # 70, 81, 28

1 82), the Court and Receiver are left to transfer Righthaven's servicemarks using their own
2 powers. Kenyon v. Automatic Instrument Co., 160 F.2d 878, 884 (6th Cir. 1947); Security-First
3 Nat'l Bank v. Republic Pictures Corp., 97 F. Supp. 360, 369 (C.D. Cal. 1951); see also Olive 4 Branch Holdings v. Smith Tech. Dev., LLC, 181 Ohio App. 3d 479, 490 (Ohio Ct. App. 2009).

5 As such, upon the signing of this order, any and all rights held by Righthaven in its 6 "Righthaven" servicemark, bearing Registration Number 3,948,912 in the U.S. Patent and 7 Trademark Office, and all associated goodwill, are hereby transferred in full from Righthaven 8 LLC to the Receiver, Lara Pearson, in her capacity as receiver, to be auctioned in partial 9 fulfillment of Hoehn's judgment (Doc. # 44).

10 Righthaven also owns a servicemark for its services known as the "Castle Mark," which 11 was identified in Righthaven's "Copyright Alliance Agreement" with Media News Group, Inc. in 12 Righthaven LLC v. Wolf, Case No. 1:11-cv-00830 (D. Colo.). Further information about this 13 servicemark is unknown. Consistent with this Court's order commanding Righthaven to assign 14 its servicemarks and trademarks to the receiver for auction (Doc. # 66), but in light of 15 Righthaven's failure to do so (Docs. # 70, 82), the Court orders that Righthaven's "Castle Mark"
16 service mark, and all associated goodwill, is transferred to the Receiver, Lara Pearson, in her 17 capacity as receiver, upon the signing of this order. The Castle Mark shall too be auctioned in 18 partial fulfillment of Hoehn's judgment (Doc. # 44).

19 IV. Righthaven's Other Intellectual Property

20 The Court recognizes that the patentability of software is the subject of considerable 21 debate. At this time, however, software may be patented, and the protections available under 22 patent law, Title 35 of the United States Code, differ from those afforded by the Copyright Act.
23 However, patents and patentable inventions may be used to satisfy judgments through receiver
24 auction. See Olive Branch Holdings, 181 Ohio App. 3d at 490. As such, upon the signing of this 25 order, any and all patentable rights and interests Righthaven has in its proprietary infringement 26 searching software are transferred to the receiver, Lara Pearson, in her capacity as receiver, to be 27 auctioned in partial fulfillment of Hoehn's judgment (Doc. # 44).

CONCLUSION

The remedies prescribed above shall be effective upon the Court signing this Order and entering it on the docket in this case.
